Civil engineering is a broadly based discipline that encompasses many specialties. The civil engineering curriculum provides students with a strong background in engineering and applied sciences.

Civil Engineering Program Educational Objectives
Graduates of the Civil Engineering program at the University of Illinois Chicago will establish careers in engineering, research and development, and/or management professions and be involved in professional societies. Graduates of the program are expected within a few years of graduation:

a. an ability to identify, formulate, and solve complex engineering problems by applying principles of engineering, science, and mathematics.
b. an ability to apply engineering design to produce solutions that meet specified needs with consideration of public health, safety, and welfare, as well as global, cultural, social, environmental, and economic factors.
c. an ability to communicate effectively with a range of audiences.
d. an ability to recognize ethical and professional responsibilities in engineering situations and make informed judgments, which must consider the impact of engineering solutions in global, economic, environmental, and societal contexts.
e. an ability to function effectively on a team whose members together provide leadership, create a collaborative and inclusive environment, establish goals, plan tasks, and meet objectives.
f. an ability to develop and conduct appropriate experimentation, analyze and interpret data, and use engineering judgment to draw conclusions.
g. an ability to acquire and apply new knowledge as needed, using appropriate learning strategies.

Accreditation
The civil engineering program at UIC is accredited by the Engineering Accreditation Commission of ABET

Degree Program
- BS in Civil Engineering
- BS in Environmental Engineering

Minor
- Minor in Civil Engineering
- Minor in Environmental Engineering
- Minor in Materials Engineering
